Issue of Women's Ordination to Confront Episcopalians at Convention

Shall women be ordained to the priesthood? Should a revised version of the Book of Common Prayer, hallmark of Episcopalian liturgy, be accepted as the basis of church worship?

These are the burning issues before the 65th triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church in Minneapolis which opens Saturday and extends through September 23. Six Princeton area residents will attend, three men as voting members or deputies and three women anxious to know the outcome for the effect it will have on their developing careers as ministers.

The Episcopal Church has three orders of ministry, deacons, priests and bishops, traditionally filled by men. In 1970, both houses of the bicameral General Convention approved a change in the wording of the canon or church law on the ordination of men as deacons to include women as well.

Three years later the House of Deputies narrowly defeated a resolution passed by the House of Bishops which would have allowed a woman to become a priest by the ceremonial "laying on of hands" by her diocesan bishop, as happens almost automatically to men deacons. Bishops are elected from the priested clergy by lay and clerical delegates to a diocesan convention, so opening the priesthood to women also means opening the episcopacy as well.

The proposed Draft Book of Common Prayer is the result of ten years of revision by liturgical commission and trial use in parishes everywhere and represents the first time the National Church has given everybody a chance to be heard on such an important matter. Longer than the Book of Common Prayer (by 1,001 pages to 432), the Draft Book preserves the traditional language of certain of the Offices, such as morning and evening prayer, along with optional forms in contemporary language. The ringing "Dearly Beloved" of the marriage service is replaced by a flat, "Dear Friends."

Conservatives for whom the old prayer book contains some of the most beautiful prayers in the English language are deeply upset by any change. Others note that the prayer book dates back to 1928, its preface recommends a future updating and that its formal cadences cannot speak to the many problems on people's minds today.

Both issues have inflamed passions and engendered partisan groups. Threats of schism and secession have prompted the presiding bishop and the president of the House of Deputies to write individual letters to all the expected bishops and deputies urging that they approach the convention in a thoughtful and prayerful frame of mind.

Voting on these and other issues affecting the conduct of the church over the next three years will be the Right Rev. G.P. Mellick Belshaw, Suffragan Bishop of New Jersey who will attend with the Diocesan Bishop, the Right Rev. Lloyd Van Duzer, as members of the House of Bishops.

Princeton is also sending two of the eight deputies, four lay and four clerical, to the House of Deputies from this diocese which extends from Elizabeth to Cape May. They are the Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber, rector of All Saints' Church, and Dr. Lee H. Bristol who were elected last November by a diocesan convention in Trenton.

As deputies they are to vote according to their consciences rather than as representatives of their diocese. Clergymen and lay men and women will vote together in a voice vote on most matters except for those major decisions for which there is a call for a vote by orders. Then the votes of the four clerical deputies from each diocese count as one vote and

Republican Withdraws, Independent Files as November Ballot For Council Seats Begins to Resemble an Impenetrable Maze

The Borough voter who enters the booth November 2 will need map, compass and enough food to last until the last lever is pulled.

These were the developments in the past week:

Surprisingly, Republican Council candidate Maurice F. Healy Jr. announced that he is withdrawing as a candidate. He would say for publication only that he is leaving the race for personal and family reasons. He was running for one of the two three-year terms on Council.

Not surprisingly, Democrat Leona Medvin announced that she will file as an Independent for the one year remaining in the term of her late husband, Murray Medvin. Mr. Medvin died June 4.

Leona Medvin

Mrs. Medvin may receive formal Republican backing, but that won't be decided until this Thursday evening, when members of the Republican county committee meet. Late in the spring, Republicans made an offer to the Democrats, promising to support Mrs. Medvin and not field a candidate against her if the Democrats chose her as their candidate.

But the Democrats declined, and tapped Marvin Trotman for the one-year seat instead. He was also unanimously appointed by Council to fill that seat until the elections and was sworn in last month.

See-Saw. Mr. Trotman was defeated in the primaries by David Male, but won over Mrs. Medvin 9-7 (with one abstention) when the Democratic county committee voted on a candidate. Mrs. Medvin defeated Mr. Trotman when the Princeton Community Democratic Organization held its vote, receiving a majority but not the two-thirds majority required for formal endorsement.

Mrs. Medvin teaches third grade at Littlebrook School. It is her 20th year as a teacher. She has lived in the Borough at 27 Leavitt Lane, for 21 years.

She has served the Princeton Regional Education Association as representative from Littlebrook to PREA's executive board, has been on the PREA's professional affairs committee and its election committee. She has also been on the religious and school committees of the Jewish Center.

In this game of checkers, the present Borough Republican Dick Woodbridge has moved into Mr. Healy's place and will now run for a three-year term. He had already begun to campaign for the two-year term on Council. That's the one that originally belonged to Barbara Sigmund, who left it to become a Mercer County Freeholder.

So, this Thursday night, the present Council "is not somebody to fill the two-year slot vacated by Mr. Woodbridge. Their one-year candidate, opposing both Mr. Trotman and Mrs. Medvin, is Ken Rendall Jr. If the Republicans decide to back Mrs. Medvin, Mr. Rendall would have to withdraw, but he might be tapped for the two-year post.

Platforms Outlined. Mrs. Medvin's Democratic backers haven't yet formally revealed who they are, but it is known that one of them is Louise Bessire.

"I am running because I think it will take hard work and solid, rational thinking -- not just arm-bands and proclamations -- to solve the problems of securing more moderate-income housing in Princeton, to develop a balanced transportation system, to oversee the planning and construction of a multi-million dollar sewer system and to keep local taxes from skyrocketing," Mrs. Medvin declared.

Martin Lombardo, Council Democrat who is running for his third term and who has been a strong backer of Mr. Trotman, wore a black arm-band last month in protest against the Township's school cost suit. He later issued a proclamation in favor of middle-income housing.

"I don't see my candidacy as a party split," Mrs. Medvin said, "because presumably voters will vote for other Democrats who are running. I don't think a vote for me precludes support for the rest of the ticket."

The present Borough Council, Mrs. Medvin said "is not willing to listen to another place and will now run for a point of view. There isn't enough open-mindedness. If already begun to campaign townspeople come to them for the two-year term on Council. That's the one that their own, they're not really originally belonged to Barbara Sigmund, who left it to get through to them."

She also charged that when appointments must be made, the present Council "is not

Republicans must find willing to look at a person's qualifications," but makes appointments on "a narrow basis."

No Leadership. "I feel we lack the leadership that will settle down and organize real solutions -- with a minimum of fanfare -- to the very real problems of the elderly, the young and the disadvantaged. These needs remain unmet, not because no one cares, but because we lack the leadership."

She also commented on the present relationship between Borough and Township.

"Many of the people with whom I have spoken share my concern over the divisiveness and small-minded partisanship displayed by incumbent members of Council. It serves no purpose whatever to pit people against one another because they live in different sections of town."

"Differences -- and there are -- between Borough and Township residents should be minimized, not exploited for narrow political gain."

Mrs. Medvin said she would feel "honored and grateful" if she obtained Republican support, but added, "I definitely consider myself a Democrat."

...BUT DON'T SPEND IT

Schools Get State Aid. Princeton's schools got $84,000 in state aid money on Tuesday -- one-tenth of the year's total -- but they were told not to spend it until legislative snags are straightened out.

"Talk to your representative in the legislature!" begged school board president Dietrich Meyerhofer Tuesday night at the board's first business meeting of the new school year.

A story in the New York Times on Sunday about the ways Princeton blacks view their community contained what some board members felt indignantly were slurs against the school system and its non-academic offerings in particular.

"I think we should respond to the people quoted in that story," said board member Dale Madden indignantly, and Dr. Meyerhofer said he wanted Acting Superintendent Edith Francis to "deal with the question and come back to the board with suggestions

Mrs. Francis, who said she hadn't read the story, was quoted in it as saying there is "strong evidence the community (Princeton) is geared more toward the highly intellectual" student. She also told the reporter that black families needed to be involved more in school life.

Trying to recall what she had said in the interview, Mrs. Francis told the board she remembered saying that Princeton needed alternatives so that children who weren't college-bound could build good lives for themselves.

similarly the votes of the four lay deputies.

If opinion is divided among the four, either clerical or lay, the divided vote is counted among the total votes cast but cannot be counted as a "yes" vote. It becomes, in effect, a "no" vote. This unit rule was the cause of the defeat of the move to have women ordained priests at the last General Convention in Louisville in 1973, which occurred in the clerical order of the House of Deputies.

The three women who are going to the Convention as observers are the Rev. Daphne Hawkes and the Rev. Virginia Sheay, the first ordained women deacons in this diocese, and Mrs. Louise Kingston, a Seminary student working toward Episcopal ordination.

Mrs. Hawkes and Mrs. Sheay have been serving as assistant ministers in their respective parishes, Trinity Church in Princeton and St. Matthews in Pennington, since their ordination and graduation from Princeton Seminary in the spring of 1975.

Limitations on Deacons. As deacons they perform all the functions of a ministry except the priestly ones of absolving, blessing and consecrating. They may bring communion to a hospital bedside but only after the elements have been consecrated by a priest, and they may perform a marriage but not give the nuptial blessing.

Although they have enjoyed their experiences working in the church they both feel frustrated by the limitations imposed by being "just a deacon." "Hobbled" is the word Rev. Hawkes uses to describe being at the altar on Sunday and knowing there is a Brief biographies of the area residents as deacons in this diocese. Mrs. Louise Kingston of Cherry Valley Road, who expects to graduate next summer from Princeton Seminary, has recently been accepted by the diocesan bishop as a candidate for Holy Orders after a rigorous physical and psychological screening process.

The Right Rev. G.P. Mellick Belshaw, 15 Boudinot Street, is Suffragan (or assistant) Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey. Son of an Episcopalian minister who also taught at Berkely Episcopal Theological Seminary in New Haven, Bishop Belshaw was rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Dover, Del., and of St. George's Episcopal Church in Rumson for 10 years before his election to the episcopacy in the fall of 1974.

The Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber, rector of All Saints' Church, is the son of Mennonite missionaries from Canada. Born and reared in Argentina, he was ordained first as a Mennonite minister and spent several years in priest.

Brussels and Paris, where he founded a Mennonite church which still exists before the Presbyterian Church with its single, deciding to join "the mainstream of the Episcopalian Eucharist prevailed. She has

He attended Princeton Seminary, was served part-time at Trinity Church where this ordained an Episcopal priest in Albany, N.Y. fall she assumes charge of pastoral coun- and received his Ph.D. in religion from Princeton University while working as an assistant at All Saints'.

Dr. Lee H. Bristol of 110 Mercer Street stepped down from the presidency of Westminster Choir College to devote more time to his multiple interests. He is an organist, hymnologist, lay reader and preacher as well as an author of several books and an enthusiastic Gilbert and Sullivan performer.

whole part of the service she can perform.

"I am there but not quite," is the way Mrs. Sheay puts it, adding ruefully that "all the guys in our class (at Seminary) are ordained now and some have their own parishes."

The issue is fraught with emotion, embodying as it does deeply rooted traditions and arguable from theological, biblical, ecumenical and practical standpoints. Opponents cite the maleness of Christ and His choice of twelve men as apostles, the admonition of Paul to women to keep silent and be submissive (1 Timothy 2:9-15) and the creation of Eve from Adam's rib.

They feel that a male priesthood is of the essence of the church and of participation in Christ's priesthood, not a matter of form or style, and that ordaining women would make the newly developing ecumenical dialogue with the Roman Catholic Church more difficult.

Other concerns are job security, especially for young black male priests, and whether women with families can give the time and attention priesthood requires.

Women Capable, BUT... "How can you change the doctrine of the Church?" asks Father Swartzentruber. "Our doctrine is the doctrine of the Holy Catholic Church, which was not divided for 1,000 years and which produced all our major statements of bible, liturgy, creeds, dogmatic definitions and church governance and discipline."

Although he feels women are certainly capable of ministry ("my mother was a better missionary than my father"), he feels that the feminist movement, which is secular, is providing some of the steam and that it would be better to wait until the Church knows its own mind on the matter, meanwhile giving women a chance to prove themselves as deacons.

The issue is expected to be initiated at the Convention in a resolution offered by the House of Bishops which changes the wording of the canons "to be equally applicable to men and women."

The majority of bishops have gone on record in favor of this "editorial correction," as Father Swartzentruber calls it, but there is likely to be prolonged debate in the House of Deputies, which must concur to make the resolution effective, on whether it shouldn't instead be considered a doctrinal or constitutional change and therefore subject to approval by two successive Conventions.

The proponents argue that as evidence of God's humanity the Word was made flesh rather than made male. They cite the patriarchal cultural tradition of the Judaic times which prompted Jesus to select twelve men as apostles to carry on his teachings, and they quote Paul's letter to the Galatians 3:28, which declares that in the one Christ there is no distinction between Jew and Gentile, slave and freeman, man and woman, "you are all one in Christ."

The advocates feel that theology changes to meet changing conditions of society and the church should be a leader rather than a follower.

Church Needs Women. Mrs. Hawkes points out that 70 percent of those who attend church are women. She feels that the Church needs women in its ministry and that the theological and biblical arguments are used to give distance to what is essentially a social question. She remembers the shock she felt the first time she saw a woman at the altar and realized that half of humanity had not been represented there before.

Dr. Bristol expressed his views by saying, "If there were candidates like Daphne Hawkes they would have priested them sooner." He adds that he wasn't "completely sold on the idea at the last Convention, but is far

The Right Rev. G.P. Mellick Belshaw
Women's ordination is inevitable

The Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber
Would advocate postponement

more sympathetic to it as he approaches this one and thinks "a committed woman could bring a good approach."

To Bishop Belshaw the ordination of women is inevitable if not now, later, and the Draft Book of Common Prayer represents a flexible compromise between the old and the new. He feels both issues pale by contrast to the awesome problems of world hunger and the mission of the church in cities. He is interested particularly in the $100 million fund the presiding bishop is seeking for outreach.

Another matter the Convention will consider is ecumenical relations with the Roman Catholic Church. Resolutions will be offered to accept statements prepared by a joint Anglican-Roman Catholic study commission on the ministry and the sacraments which show that both faiths think alike in these two areas.

But a "sleeper" issue which may come up and which will throw the women's ordination question into further disarray is the subject of gay liberation and homosexuals. There are likely to be resolutions from the floor urging homosexual ordination as well as recognition of homosexual marriage. This prospect makes Father Swartzentruber think there are times when major decisions in the church should not be made until the upheaval in society has sorted itself out.

TEN NEW HOUSES?
"Dogwood Hill" to Discuss.
Proposals to build ten or a dozen new houses on "Dogwood Hill" on Mt. Lucas Road, were scheduled for discussion this Wednesday at the Princeton Regional Planning Board meeting (8 p.m., Borough Hall).

Four concepts for developing the property had originally been presented by developer Neil Gold. This one would comply with the Township's zoning laws, and would involve development of the lots in a cluster pattern. Mr. Gold would be able to make sewer connections in the Montgomery-Rocky Hill-Township system.

The Planning Board is also scheduled to hear a progress report on implementing the new state municipal land-use law. Gordon Griffin, attorney for the two Princetons, has drafted a land use ordinance, now under consideration by both governing bodies, and the planning board's own attorney, William Miller, has developed a progress report for the board.

A PARK BY A QUARRY
Environmental Study Made. Environmental assessments of the Borough's proposed Quarry Park have been made by municipal engineer George Olexa, and will be on the agenda for public comment next Tuesday when Borough Council holds its monthly 8 p.m. meeting.

Council has also scheduled Quarry Park discussions for the October meeting. The environmental assessment may be examined in Mr. Olexa's office or in the public library.

SEWERS? FOR PENNINGTON? The Borough of Pennington, hapless Cinderella of the seven Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority towns, is about to get, if not a glass alipper, at least some local sewer collector lines which most residents would rather have anyway. No place yet to lay in, but you've got to begin somewhere. Story, this page.

Mr. Olexa concludes that development into a park will be a positive thing for the four-acre plot. It will reduce surface runoff and soil erosion, improve slope stability and groundwater recharge, and provide social amenities.

He presents two road options, one with Spruce Street extended into the site and the Harrison-Spruce exit closed, the other without the extension.

The Borough has received $152,000 from HUD, the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, and hopes for one-half the final appraised price from state Green Acres money. The Borough is still not disclosing that price, rumored to be $500,000.

Quarry Park will be devoted to "passive" recreation - no ballfields. There will be areas for the elderly and the very young, possibly picnic tables, and extensive plantings in the present open field.

NEW MEETING DATES
It's Thursday, in Township.
This Thursday, at 8 p.m. in Township Hall, Township Committee will begin its new schedule of meetings - the second, third and fourth Thursday nights, instead of the customary Monday nights.

The brief agenda includes public hearing on the salary ordinance that brings municipal employees from 5 percent raises up to the 7 percent police - and Borough employee - level, and the emergency appropriation to meet that payroll.

Bids for a new leaf-vacuum will come under discussion. Committee may also discuss shifting its September 23 meeting to another date because of the scheduled Presidential candidate debate on television.

PENNINGTON SEWERS?

Collectors. Anyway. If you don't use it, you'll lose it. That's why the Borough of Pennington is building, of all things for that sewage-bedecked community, sewer collector lines.

Construction by the Central Construction Company of Hazlet, N.J., low bidder of seven, is scheduled to start Monday, and to end about 18 months from now. It will proceed right on through the winter months.

Pennington, perhaps more plagued by sewage problems than any of the seven communities in the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, doesn't know the end point of those collector lines. The Authority has decided on the single-plant Plan A, but many a tortuous legal and engineering road lies ahead before that plan - or any final plan - is finally implemented and Pennington can indeed tie in. So, for a while, the collector lines won't collect anything and will end up nowhere.

But they had to be constructed now, explains Borough clerk Sharon Szalontay, because of the Federal grant of $1,806,000 awarded to the community last October. This money had to be used within a year or forfeited. It pays 75 percent of the fundable part of the collector system, whose total cost is $2,455,000. The remainder will be either assessed or bonded, and Pennington is still wistfully hoping for the state's promised - and reneged - 15 percent. There might also be some money in the new Federal public works law.

Engineers and representatives of the contractor plan to talk with each Pennington householder to advise on the best place to connect into the new lines. There will be no connection fee, but homeowners will have to pay the cost of carrying a line from the house to the main.

The engineering firm of Ditmars and Carmichael of Princeton, is the consulting firm for Pennington on sewers. William Stratton of Trenton Engineering, is Pennington's engineer.

BALLOON IS BLAMED
For Car Mishap. There were no injuries and damage was slight but the cause of the two-car collision Thursday morning on Harrison Street was unusual.

Gaola H. Roffis of 2 Spruce Lane, Kingston, told police that she was driving along and remembered seeing "a red thing fly in front of me and then I felt a crash." That red thing was part of a hot air balloon.

According to Borough police, a balloon registered to the Princeton University Balloon Club, Forrestal Campus, was being towed on an eight-foot flatbed trailer by Gordon A. Sadler, 22, 15 Park Place. The balloon was wound on a large reel in the front part of the trailer while the gondola was upright in the rear portion, held in place by nylon straps.

The gondola, police said, fell from the trailer, causing Mr. Sadler's towing vehicle to zigzag. Before he was able to bring it under control, the front fender struck the side of Mrs. Roffis's car.

Mr. Sadler, who was

WOMAN IS CHARGED
With Assault by Shotgun. A Monmouth Junction resident has been charged with assault with a gun and failure to have a firearm identification card in her possession by Township police.

Patricia T. Lucadano, 39, was arrested last Tuesday evening (August 31) by P.D. Anthony Gaylord after she had allegedly threatened Elisha J. White of 33 Juniper Row with a 12-gauge shotgun. Ms. Lucadano has been released in $1,000 bail, pending her appearance September 29 in Township court.

Police quoted Mr. White as saying there had been a dispute between Ms. Lucadano and himself over a bicycle. He called the police.

TWO CHARGES LODGED

deGrazia was charged by Det. Charles Harris, following his arrest last Wednesday, with throwing a tar-like substance on the front facade of a professional building at 201 Nassau Street. In declining to discuss any possible motive, Chief Michael Carnevale attributed his arrest to

In Anti-Freeze Theft. William G. White, 32, 150 Spruce Street, is being sought by Borough police as a suspect in the theft of 45 cases of anti-freeze from the Spirit Fluid Manufacturing Corp., U.S. 1.

After West Windsor police had reported the theft last week and given a description of the truck involved, it was seen parked in the middle of Spruce Street by Sgt. Robert Anderson of the Borough police.

Sgt. Anderson checked the apartment of White, who, police said, is an employee of the Spirit Corp., and later reportedly recovered 42 cases of the anti-freeze in the basement. White was no where to be found. The anti-freeze is valued at $837.60.

Summer Heat Over? Wait 'til Hearings on Future of I-95 Resume

Impact....What they do in Hopewell Township or Montgomery Township has an impact on a Princeton resident, even if you haven't been in Hopewell Township for five years.

At the moment, it's the impact of a possible extension of Interstate I-95 from the vicinity of I-295 in Mercer County, north to I-287 in Middlesex and Somerset Counties.

On Tuesday, September 21, at 7:30 p.m., the state's Department of Transportation will hold a public meeting in Hopewell Valley Central High School, Pennington, to explain environmental studies now under way, and to ask for public comment.

There's no doubt about the latter. Opposition to I-95 in Hopewell, Montgomery and Princeton townships can be traced through yellowed newspaper clippings dating back ten years and more, and if the clippings have faded, opposition has not.

"We must be adamant in opposition," declares Margen Penick. She is vice-chairman of Princeton's Planning Board, but she emphasizes that she is voicing her opposition in her own name, only.

The Planning Board did pass, 10-1, on June 2, a resolution re-emphasizing to the state the need for relief of present and future through traffic along Route 206, re-emphasizing concern about I-95 and urging high state priority for a 92-A by-pass, which Princeton has wanted for decades as a way to get the big trucks off Nassau.

The Planning Board also asked the state for regional meetings on I-95, and whether in response to Princeton's request or not, these meetings have indeed been set up, and the one in Pennington is one of six.

New Type of Study. "Environmental studies are new for I-95," explains William Mathews, of the Department of Transportation's Office of Community Involvement. "We only started in June. We want to tell people what's being done NOW. Before, when approval was given in 1968-9, the concentration was on engineering feasibility. Now, we're exploring the social and environmental impact."

"Obviously," Mr. Mathews says, "if one of the alternative routes were obvious, blatant — it would be tossed out. Considering social and environmental impacts, we're asking, 'are any alternatives buildable?'"

"It's a delicate issue," he concedes. "You cannot count, or quantify, social impacts."

Mr. Mathews, at each of the six meetings, will make a presentation for the Community Involvement division, followed by presentations from the Bureau of Environmental Analysis and the Bureau of Project Location of the DOT.

"We want basic comments from the audience," he continues, "where you think the route should go....maybe you know about some historic site overlooked in the past, for example."

The DOT is addressing its studies to all 34 routes that have been suggested for I-95, including the so-called "no-build alternative." Connecting up with the turnpike and giving that roadway the dual designation of "I-95" and "turnpike" is part of the no-build alternative.

No Hearings Here. What angers Josie Hall, Princeton Township Committee member, is that neither Princeton Borough nor Township is one of the six communities where hearings are being held.

"I am absolutely appalled that we weren't included," she says. Princeton's governing bodies were informed of meeting dates and places, apparently on the assumption that Princeton officials could present their cases at any of the meetings.

"Each community has different problems, although we're all affected," Mrs. Hall continues. "Princeton Township and Borough has different ones from Montgomery and Cranbury."

The six meetings are the first set of three sets which will be held as the state works on its draft Environmental Impact statement (EIS). The hearings are quite different from the official public hearing that will be held when the EIS draft is finished, emphasized DOT Commissioner Alan Sagner.

"In an effort to realize a thorough and effective community involvement program, the information meetings will be supplemented by additional meetings and activities, such as workshop sessions, during the development of the Draft EIS," he added. "Such a program will help ensure that each community's needs and requests are adequately addressed by the Department."

Mrs. Penick, "adamant" in her opposition to I-95, voted for the Planning Board resolution, although an attempt on her part to make it stronger was voted down by everyone else on the board. She is opposed because she believes that I-95 "is just another destruction of land and living areas, and Princeton SHOULD oppose it."

She sees Princeton as a narrow island, caught between the pollution of Route One and the turnpike on one side, and I-95 on the other. She also points to what she regards as the "horrendous" dollar cost of the ten miles through Hopewell Township, and believes that it would be cheaper to make the turnpike connection.

Mrs. Penick is afraid that if I-95 is built, trucks will "go roaring through Princeton from Route One on their way to I-95, increasing traffic on 206."

Mrs. Hall also fears that, if money is spent by the state on I-95, there won't be anything left to build the 92-A bypass for Princeton and she points to repeated defeats by the public of bond issues that would provide the money.

She points to studies that show how commercial and residential growth mushrooms up along interstate interchanges, bringing shoppers and visitors into the area who might never have driven into this part of the world otherwise.

Township Undecided. Princeton Township's Mayor Jay Bleiman said this week that his municipality hasn't yet decided what part to play in the hearings.

"We may suggest kinds of environmental questions the state might ask," he offered. "We'd like to know who's doing the environmental assessment and how it's being conducted."

Township Committee originally passed, in early May, a resolution asking the state to abandon I-95. Later, however, Committee abandoned that route itself, and simply asked Commissioner Sagner to come to Princeton for a talk.

Mayor Bleiman said that, after the state's decision to do an environmental assessment, the question of a meeting was "moot." Committee plans to talk about I-95 at its meeting this Thursday and decide what to do.

The introductory meetings, to begin at 7:30 p.m., will be held as follows: Tuesday, September 14, in the Piscataway High School auditorium, Hoes Lane, Piscataway; Wednesday, September 15, in the Franklin Township Municipal Building, 475 DeMott Lane, Somerset; Thursday, September 16, in the Hunterdon Central High School on Route 31 in Flemington.

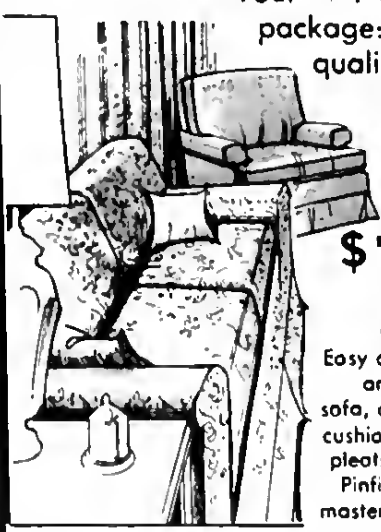

Also, Tuesday, September 21, in the Hopewell Valley Central High School, Pennington-Titusville Road, Pennington; Wednesday, September 22, in the Montgomery Township High School, Burnt Hill Road, Skillman; and, Thursday, September 23, in the Cranbury Elementary School, 23 North Main Street, Cranbury.

Further information concerning the meetings may be obtained from William Mathews, Office of Community Involvement in the EIS draft is finished, Trenton, telephone (609) 292-6802.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

BUSES READY TO ROLL. Under Mercer Metro. No more blue and white loop buses for the Princeton rider, starting this Thursday. Instead, the two new buses of the county's Mercer Metro line. The sign will still read "Loop Bus," so you'll know. Riders over 62 may use state Department of Transportation half-fare books. To get one, stop at any bank and ask the "information" teller for an application blank. After you've filled it out, the bank will mail it to the state, and the state in turn will send you a book.

Mercer Metro fares are 30 cents and you must have exact fare. Transfers cost five cents. Everyone, regardless of age, may ride half-fare between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The new buses call for Saturday runs, not available before on loop buses in Princeton. For the complete schedule, see page 18.

The joint advisory committee on public transportation will meet next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall to discuss Mercer Metro's take-over of the Princeton bus line. This meeting has been rescheduled from the original September 16 date.

RUG, PLANTS STOLEN. From Stockton Home. A $50 imitation leopard rug and five potted oxalis plants valued at $100 were stolen last week in separate thefts at the home of Richard W. Westevelt, 364 Stockton Street.

The rug had been laundered and placed on a chair on the rear porch to dry. It was recovered three days later on Friday in woods behind the house as Ptl William Potts was investigating the theft of the plants from a patio.

More CB Thefts. Township police listed three more citizen band radio thefts last week, two from cars parked in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Hugh Hayemeyer of Atlanta told police he had parked his car for about an hour Thursday afternoon next to the entry to Center Sports. When he returned, he noticed the door to his car had been pried open and his $180 CB missing.

Joseph Sherwin of Toms River was absent only about five minutes from his car but that was sufficient time to allow a thief to steal his CB radio and a $25 jacket.

Ralph Bennett, 616 Ewing Street, lost a 23 channel CB valued at $200. He told police that he had parked his car in his drive in the evening and when he went for his mail at the foot of his drive later, he discovered the door to his locked car ajar.

"INCOME TAX AND ME" Meetings Planned. A pair of meetings designed to inform citizens about the impact of the New Jersey state income tax on individuals and families, will be held in Borough Hall next Wednesday, September 15.

The first meeting, scheduled for 3 p.m., is geared to the elderly and the effect of the tax on them. The 8 p.m. session will consider renters, commuters and home-owners.

Sidney Glaser, director of the state's division of taxation, will be the chief speaker. He has been associated with the division since 1946, and has been director since 1971.

MAGAZINE AVAILABLE. Of Children's Work. "Helikon Harvest," a magazine of poems and stories written by children in the greater Princeton area is now available free at the public libraries in Princeton, West Windsor, and Lawrenceville. It is published by The Helikon Writing Program, a write-for-fun program for children and adults who meet weekly in small group sessions.

Children from 5 through 16 write for the magazine which is then edited and compiled by members of the Creative Writing Workshop. This issue's publication staff included Lisa Cohen, Anne

In addition to the newspaper class and creative writing workshop for middle schoolers, Helikon will also offer Story Arts for grades K-2; Create-a-book Workshop for grades 3-5; and Filmmaking for beginning and intermediate filmmakers from ages 10 and up. All classes will be limited to 7-12 children depending on age and skill.

Adults who want to write can also join the program. There will be a Women's Writing Workshop on Wednesday mornings, an Open Writing Workshop on Monday evenings, and a four week mini-course entitled, Introduction to Creative Writing.

An Open House to register and meet the staff will be held on September 16 at the Unitarian Church. Interested children may come from 3:30-5:00, and adults are invited from 4:30-6. For information and brochure, call Mimi Schwartz, 924-5782, or ask at the public library.

HOME ENTERED. Loss is $908. The home of Thomas K. Patrick, 292 Stockton Street, was entered last week by an intruder who took advantage of a faulty latch on a rear sliding glass door.

Articles including jewelry, clothing and a radio with a combined value of $908.25 were stolen from a master bedroom, police said. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

PRINCETONIANS SEEK BOROUGH HALL

It all started at Princeton Hospital for all four Borough Council Democratic candidates who were born and raised in Princeton. Left to right; Marty Lombardo, David Male, Irvin Urken and Marv Trotman.

Borough Democrats have a strong, progressive team running for Princeton Borough Council on the Democratic ticket: David Male, Irvin Urken, Marvin Trotman, and Martin Lombardo. They bring the vigor of youth, with ages ranging from 20 to 39, and yet since all were born and raised in Princeton and attended Princeton schools, they also bring a total of 121 years experience in the Princeton Community.

These four Democrats running for Council are representative of our diverse community and have the knowledge and commitment to understand and respond to our needs. David Male, following in the footsteps of his parents Ray and Alice Male, and at 20 the youngest of the four candidates is especially sensitive to the problems of youth, has proven his dedication by his service to the community as an intern and the hard campaign he is already waging. Irvin Urken, who majored in Political Science at Middlebury College, manages his family's business, Urken Supply Co., at 27 Witherspoon Street, and will bring political sophistication and management skills to Borough Council. Marv Trotman, widely known as an outstanding athlete, is a member of the Princeton High School faculty and is now completing his Ph.D. at Rutgers University in Educational theory. He has gained valuable experience since his appointment to Borough Council and when elected will continue black representation on Council, after Joe Moore's retirement on January 1, 1977. Marty Lombardo, formerly employed by the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights, is National Coordinator of Youth and Young Adult activities for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. Having served 6 years on Borough Council and Council President since January 1, 1976 Marty offers a record of accomplishment and deep experience in local government.

WHO'S WHO

LOOKIN' GOOD: Two tones of denim and soft rainbow leather inserts across the jacket yoke and down the pants combine to make this the most elaborate jeans outfit ever. Hand-made in California by Antonio Guiseppe, the materials and workmanship are excellent. Worn here by William Teague, it can be seen at Lookin' Good on Witherspoon Street.

IT'S NEW To Us

LOOK GOOD WITH DENIM
New Store Opens. With the high interest in denim the past few years, it is remarkable that Princeton has not previously had a store specializing in this fabric.

This situation changed, however, a few weeks ago when Lookin' Good opened on Witherspoon Street. With the emphasis on a casual look, this is the second such store for Randy Keidash and Jamie MacInnes who felt that Princeton lacked a spot to buy stylish jeans at a reasonable price.

Remember, these are fashion jeans and so reasonable means $18 to $35. Lookin' Good doesn't carry any regular cuts because these are easy to find elsewhere. The styles here are all French cut, which means a tapered look that is tight through the thighs and slightly flared below the knees. The big change in jeans this year is the absence of embroidery and the addition of leather trim across the back, on the pockets, down the sides or wherever it can be added. Other trims are around too, and we saw patches, woven ones, braided accents and plenty of topstitching. In fact, a most interesting pair of jeans is made (totally of waistbands (complete with belt loops) all stitched together.

Then for the real connoisseur, there are hand-stitched jeans and matching jackets by Antonio Guiseppe. Each piece costs $90, but they are beautifully made and do include large areas of handsome leather (see picture.) Also, to balance this, Lookin' Good always has a selection of discontinued styles priced at $13.95.

Unisex Fashions. This is a unisex shop and so most everything is double-sized for men and women. Size 28 to 38 for the former and 5 to 18 for the latter.

The three-piece suit is important this Fall no matter what the fabric, and here we saw denim blazers and vests

Fashion Show Set for McCarter Theatre

Complete with a panoply of theatrical accents a revue of fall and winter fashions is coming to McCarter Theatre on Monday, September 20 at 8 p.m.

Presented by Robert Varga Inc., this evening at the theatre will feature men and women models wearing the collections of many international designers, an original sound track of vibrating rhythms, dancers, stage sets, special lighting effects, ushers and even standard theatre tickets.

The dual trend towards active sportswear and dressy evening clothes continues, and so this season's fashions include evening pyjamas as well as the French Lassere Couture line of gabardine pants and matching sweaters that are meant to be worn by both sexes.

Other looks are lots of Scottish plaids, tunics, slinky matte jerseys that pack beautifully, and tuxedos for women. These were shown by almost every designer and are meant to be worn for cocktails and dinner — or even to a formal if you are that avant garde.

Some of the designers to be represented are Calvin Klein, Oscar de la Renta, Beene Bag as well as Geoffrey Beene Couture with his $1,000 suits, Anne Klein and her men's Mark of the Lion, Gloria Vanderbilt and the most important new designer this season, Jean Charles Castelbajac who works with bright colors and active sportswear.

All price ranges will be shown as Robert Varga believes that fashion is a look no matter what the price, and his three stores are indicative of this concept. Designer fashions can be found at Robert Varga Lawrenceville (Route 1 at Hopatcong Drive,) contemporary styles at Robert Varga Independence Mall (2465 South Broad Street,) and the youngest ones at Robert Varga Avant Garde (1784 North Olden Avenue.)

Tickets for the fashion show are free and can be picked up at any of the three stores. If you wish, call ahead for reservations.

POOL DESIGNED HERE
Betting Legal in Delaware. Football enthusiasts who have been filling out their betting pool forms in the back office and sending them in surreptitiously can do it legally this season -- in Delaware. The state has had Mathematica of Princeton Junction design and implement the first state-operated lottery "Sports Pool" system in the United States. Now in operation, the contract calls for weekly pools for various sports, throughout their respective seasons.

The football pool offers two types of tickets, each covering the 14 weekly National Football League games. One variation has two columns of seven games--the participant chooses the winners in either one group or all 14 games.

The other card allows the player to predict the winners in three, four or five games and the corresponding point differences which are grouped into three choices: 0-7 points, 8-14 points and 15 points or over. The betting can be in amounts of $1, $2, $5 or $10 per card and the prizes are based on a parimutuel payout. New tickets are issued every week.

Mathematica a leader in the development of state lotteries, is a consulting and research firm working in the areas of operations research, system analysis, economic analysis, opinion research and survey development. Its services are utilized by federal, state and local government agencies, as well as by private industry.

trade association, and educational and non-profit organizations.

RCA NAMES MANAGER
For Employment, Records. Paul Brown, Jr., a resident of Kingston, has been appointed manager, employment and records, at RCA Laboratories.

Although a native of Columbia, S.C., Mr. Brown grew up in Washington, D.C., where he received a B.S. degree in Physics from Howard University and New York University and courses in Business Administration at Rider College. He is currently working on an M.B.A. degree at New York University.

He joined RCA in 1959 as an engineering trainee for the Corporation's Defense Electronic Products organization in Camden. He served as an officer in the U.S. Army at the Signal Corps Research and Development Laboratory from 1960 to 1962, when he returned to RCA as a Member of the Technical Staff of RCA Laboratories.

In 1966, Mr. Brown was appointed Administrator, Technical Services, and Safety Officer. Then in 1971, he was named Administrator, Research Staff Services, and in 1973 was appointed Manager, Technical Relations, the position he held until his current promotion.

TWO APPOINTED
At Carrier Clinic. Dr. Robert S. Garber, president of The Carrier Clinic in Belle

Paul Brown Jr.

Mead, has announced the appointment of Dr. George F. Wilson as Assistant Medical Director and Ann Medlock as Director of Community Relations.

Dr. Wilson has been a staff psychiatrist at Carrier for two years. In his new role he will supervise the activities of several clinic departments, including adjunctive therapies, social services, nursing, patient care assessment and the medical library.

Dr. Wilson, who will see patients on an outpatient basis only, did his pre-med studies at Manhattan College and took his medical degree from New York Medical College. He interned at Metropolitan Hospital in New York, served his residency at the Institute of Living in Hartford, Conn., and lives in Skillman.

Formerly a consultant to the clinic, Ms. Medlock has been president of Medlock and Company in Princeton and The Eleventh House in New York City, both public information consulting firms. She has also been an editor at MacMillan in New York, Science Research Associates in Chicago and at Viet Nam Presse in Saigon and has taught journalistic style to reporters on the Kobe Shinbun in Japan. Since moving to Princeton (66 Battle Road), Ms. Medlock has been a founder of SOLO, a consultant to the United Fund, the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association and the National Organization for Women.

Her Carrier responsibilities include all the clinic's publications and audio-visual materials. Two slide presentations, one on alcoholism and one on depression, will be available to interested organizations in October. A graphics competition she organized for the clinic is now hanging at Educational Testing Service, and she is now putting together a speakers' bureau.

Organizations interested in information about the speakers' bureau and the audio-visual materials are invited to call the Community Relations Office at 874-4000.

5 TIMES BETTER THAN Ordinary CLEANING

FIVE TIMES BETTER: Wash-O-Mat of Princeton has joined with Olden Carpet Cleaners of Trenton to provide commercial and residential steam cleaning of carpets with Wash-O-Mat owner Dave Kass says is five times better than ordinary steam cleaning. Story this page.

RICH MARKET CITED
Here in Central Jersey. Citing Central Jersey as the gateway to the world's richest market, a new booklet on the mid-Jersey area has been released by the Building Contractors Association of Central Jersey.

The booklet points out that one-tenth of the U.S. population is located within 75 miles of Trenton, and the area contains more than 52 million people with a net spendable income of 91 billion dollars.

Released as part of an independent businessman effort to attract new and desirable industry to the Central Jersey area, the booklet is being sent to governmental, industrial and citizen leaders inside and outside the State, according to F. Robert O'Neill, president of United Steel Products Corporation of Trenton, who is also president of the Building Contractors Association of Central Jersey.

"Our group formed an Industrial Development Committee a number of years ago," said Mr. O'Neill. "Headed by Richard J. Pelikan, vice-president of Lewis C. Bowers & Sons of Princeton, this committee seeks to supplement the work of state and local governmental authorities in calling attention to the favorable manufacturing climate in Central Jersey. There are a lot of good things to say about New Jersey, and if we can help to spread this message to the benefit of the State and its citizens, we want to do so."

Special sections of the booklet, with pictures and copy, call attention to the abundance of transportation, utilities, educational, research, and development facilities, land and recreation availability, and the virtually unlimited supply of labor that exists in this area. Copies are available through Richard J. Casey, executive director of the Building Contractors Association of Central Jersey, 5 Third Street, Bordentown.

RUG CLEANING OFFERED

By Wash-O-Mat. Dave Kass, owner of the Coin Wash and Wash-O-Mat, 259 Nassau Street, has joined with Olden Carpet Cleaners of Trenton to provide steam carpet cleaning for the home or office.

Deep steam cleaning of rugs and carpets is superior to the old brush and foam method, Mr. Kass said, which did little more than remove surface dirt. Steam cleaning is a deep extraction method that brings the soil up from the bottom and removes spots and stains.

But there are differences among steam cleaners, too, and Mr. Kass maintains that the system employed by Olden Carpet is five times cleaner than ordinary steam cleaning.

Although steam cleaners that can be rented from stores for about $12 a day operate on the same principle as the equipment used by Olden Carpet (steam injected in, dirt vacuumed out) the major difference is the amount of pressure involved, Mr. Kass pointed out.

Units such as Rinse and Vac and Steamex produce between 28 to 40 pounds of steam per square inch and dry 95 cubic feet per minute. Olden's powerful 18 horsepower motor dries faster and absorbs more moisture. It produces 300 to 325 pounds per square inch and dries from 230 to 100 cubic feet per minute. The result is a cleaner and drier carpet.

There is no noise or mess for the customer, Mr. Kass continued. "Our truck has its own generator and produces its own electricity. We use our own hot water and our own power." All dirty water is returned to the truck and Mr. Kass reports that about 95 percent of the moisture gets sucked out.

Since steam cleaning is gentle it is safe for both synthetic and wool fibers. It can be used on all types of carpeting: area rugs, wall-to-wall, hard surface to deep shag -- plus upholstery. So powerful is the Olden system that it can clean 700 feet away or as high as 13 stories.

As part of its cleaning service, Olden will treat carpets with Carpet Guard, a protective, invisible spray that repels water and resists spills and dirt. "It makes rugs look better, clean easier and last longer," Mr. Kass said.

He suggests calling for an appointment. One of Olden's trained technicians will then go and measure the carpet area as fees are based on square footage. Olden's system can clean 600 to 700 square feet an hour and it is possible to finish a home in a few hours, Mr. Kass said.

If the occasion warrants, Olden can use smaller units or the scrubbing method. All estimates are free.

A Non-Event Worth Missing.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
A lack of advance publicity kept most of us from enjoying Princeton's newest form of summer entertainment, courtesy of the University, which is apparently selling its idle space and food.

A keynote address by Timothy Leary, a fellow skipping around in a tree with a few leaves and branches covering his parts, another guy "dressed" as a cucumber (imagine that!), and a "gay for a day" seminar were featured in the recent AHP convention. We can only hope they will all return another day to provide, as acting Mayor Marty Lombardo observed, the "kind of event which is great for the community."

A Vote for Avalon Place.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The letter of Robert Carter Miller (TOWN TOPICS, July 29; PRINCETON PACKET, July 28) should settle finally the question whether Avalon Place should be changed to Paul Robeson Place.

I am sure that the Council (Mr. Moore not voting) did not know the previous history of Avalon Place. I quote from Mr. Miller's letter: "At the time that Dr. Tertius Van Dyke... agreed to sell his father's house and lands to the YMCA for a generously low sum, he expressed the hope to me that the new road would be called Avalon Place."

I was President of the Princeton YMCA at the time, and the Board of Directors of the Y and I all agreed so to name the street. Subsequently, land was given by the YM-YWCA Trustees to allow the street to be built."

It is obvious, therefore, that Avalon Place has been formerly accepted by the Borough on land given to bear the name "Avalon" and accepted by the Borough under that condition. That being so, we can establish a memorial for Mr. Robeson elsewhere in the Borough.

For indeed it would be a poor way of celebrating the Bicentennial by abolishing the memorial to our Ambassador to the Netherlands and Luxembourg who "stood up" to the Germans, and substituting the name of a Communist.

HART HOUSE ON VIEW

In Hopewell House Tour. To continue Hopewell's Bicentennial celebration, the Hopewell Valley Garden Club and the Hopewell Woman's Club are planning a House Tour on Sunday, September 26 from 1 to 5. Refreshments will be served from 1:30 to 4:30 at the Calvary Baptist Church on Broad Street in Hopewell.

Of special interest in the Hart House on Hart Avenue. Now owned by the Stewart family, it was the home of John Hart, one of the five signers of the Declaration of Independence from New Jersey. The original deed is hanging on the wall.

Other houses include the Victorian home of Mrs. Robert S. Fedder on Louellen Street; the Old Presbyterian Church at 79 West Broad Street, now owned by the Christie family; the Holcombe House at 45 East Broad Street, which was the original house of Brown University; and the Heaton House on the corner of Columbia and Princeton Avenues, which has a new coat of paint and a new look. The old school Baptist Church and the Hopewell Museum, both on Broad Street, will also be open for the tour.

Flower arrangements designed by the members of the Hopewell Valley Garden Club will be in various rooms of the homes, and hostesses will be on hand to explain points of interest to the visitor. Tickets will be available Wednesday at Allen's Florist for a $3 donation or may be purchased at any house on the day of the tour.

The president of the high school's Parent-Teacher Organization told the board she planned to talk to the reporter, tell him about vocational offerings at the high school and about the Sypek Vocational Center.

"Many people in town feel the things expressed in that story were right," protested board member Robin Wallack. She said she thought Dr. Meyerhofer and Dr. Madden over-reacted.

Besides Mrs. Francis, the Rev. Leon Gipson and Borough Council member Joseph P. Moore were quoted in the article in regard to education in Princeton.

The board formally named Florence Burke Acting Principal of Riverside School at a salary of $29,900. Mrs. Francis reported that the schools are now only 3.4 teachers over the goal of 245. New teachers - 7.4 of them - have been hired in vocal music, special education, high school science, and athletic training at the high school.

Staff from nearby state colleges and the state's department of education will work with Princeton teachers during the released-time ("Wednesday") afternoons, setting up workshops and courses in line with Thorough and Efficient requirements, and work on curriculum development, reported Acting Superintendent Edith Francis.

Dr. Madden prodded her to be specific: how many days will actually be used for what subjects? What was her target date for definite plans? But Mrs. Francis said she still needed to confer with teachers themselves, and is waiting for the T & E resource teacher to be hired.

In the board's 6-2 vote approving the released-time schedule, Dr. Madden and Winthrop Pike voted "no." Mr. Pike, over the years, has consistently voted against released time programs.

Littlebrook School will have outside contracted custodians for the first time this year. Mr. Pike questioned whether, with local people in need of jobs, the shift is a wise one. It saves money for the schools.

BUS RIDE PROVIDED

To YMCA After School. Part of the program at the Princeton YMCA this fall will be a bus from Princeton elementary school to the Y following school dismissal.

Any Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday children may board the bus; pick-up will begin at Riverside followed by Littlebrook and Community Park. The bus will arrive at the Y about 3:30.

Children need not be registered for any specific program to take the bus. However, many programs have been scheduled at times when the bus is in use.

OBITUARIES

Dr. T. Cuyler Young, 76, a lifelong student and analyst of Near Eastern affairs and the first incumbent of the Horatio Whitridge Garrett Professorship of Foreign Affairs at Princeton University, died August 31 at Princeton Medical Center of cancer of the liver.

Dr. Young had served on the Princeton faculty from 1947 until his retirement in 1969 and had been chairman of the department of Oriental studies for fifteen years. After retirement from Princeton, he spent two years at the University of Nairobi in the department of Islamic studies and history.

A native of Moosic, Pa., Dr.

Young was graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1922 from the College of Wooster. He continued his studies at Princeton and in 1925 was awarded his

News Of The CHURCHES

SERIES SCHEDULED
At Nassau Church. A human growth and development series will be held this year at Nassau Presbyterian Church. Experts in the human development field will lead the two hour sessions which are open to all, with active participation and discussion expected.

Dr. William Combs, a psychiatrist, will begin the program with a two-part series on Monday, September 20, at 8 p.m. in the Assembly room of the Palmer Square building. His topic will be "Early Childhood Development and Parenting," which he will conclude on September 27.

A two part series on "Adolescence and Its Problems" led by psychoanalyst Dr. Ken Gould will be held November 15 and 22. On two Sundays in January Dr. A.J. van den Blink, clinical director of Trinity Counseling Service, will lead discussions on "Family Conflicts."

The Rev. William Kirby, director of the Princeton University Wesleyan-Westminster Foundation and a counselor in the sexuality, education, counseling and health center of the University, will lead a series of discussions on "Human Sexuality" in February. It is hoped that other developmental stages such as The Middle Years, Aging and Death and Dying can be scheduled later in the year or in the fall of 1977.

THREE PARTICIPATED
In Alliance Meeting. The North American Area Council of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches (Presbyterian and Congregational) met last week at Princeton Theological Seminary. More than 80 delegates representing 16 Presbyterian, Reformed, and Congregational churches in Canada, the Caribbean, and the United States attended the three day session.

Dr. George S. Hendry, former professor of systematic theology at Princeton Seminary, spoke on the theme of the World Alliance's centennial observance, "The Glory of God and the Future of Man." Dr. Charles C. West, professor of Christian ethics at the Seminary, addressed the area council on the subject, "The Christian in Business."

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Seminary, serves as the area council's general secretary.

BULLETIN NOTES
The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on Hightstown Road will return to its regular 11 a.m. worship service Sunday with a nursery available for young children and a coffee social hour at about noon. Sunday School will meet at 10 for children age three and up, and an adult class will study a variety of topics and problems in everyday life.

The Rev. Frederick Schott is the pastor. For further information call him at 799-1753 or 799-1783.

The farm workers' store in Cranbury is still seeking good work clothes to sell to workers at a fraction of their normal price (dresses at 25 and 50 cents, for instance). Men's, women's and children's clothing may be left at the door of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on Hightstown Road.

Some household items will also be accepted, but the donor should check first with Helen Wilbur, 799-0094.

The United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue, will hold its 2nd Annual Street Fair Saturday from 9 to 4 on the church lawn. There will be dealers' tables as well as church tables offering baked goods and handmade items. Cold drinks, hot dogs and other snacks will be served by the Youth Group.

University of Chicago's Oriental Institute while also serving the First Presbyterian Church as an assistant pastor. In 1938 he was appointed to the faculty of the University of Toronto where he taught Hebrew and Ancient Near Eastern History.

The war years found him, on leave from Toronto, in Washington as a research analyst with the Office of Strategic Services and as deputy chief of its Near East section. In 1944 he transferred to the Foreign Service Reserve of the State Department and was sent abroad for a two-year assignment as the first public affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Over the years he returned to Iran a number of times.

Dr. Young's leadership helped make Princeton University a prominent center in America for the study of the Near East and the Islamic world, but he did not confine his activities to Princeton. For many years he was on the American Council of Learned Societies' Near East Studies Committee and chaired a similar committee for the Social Science Research Council, serving a term on the latter's Board of Directors. For a dozen years he directed an Inter-University Committee on Summer Programs in Near Eastern Languages under Ford Foundation grants, and with support from the U.S. Office of Education under the National Defense Education Act.

Dr. Young was one of the few Western scholars named a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre, an honor accorded by the American Friends of the Orthodox Patriarchate of Jerusalem of which he was president for many years. He was a charter member of the board of advisory editors of the Middle East Journal and a member of the board of governors of the Middle East Institute in Washington. He also was instrumental in the creation of the American Institute of Iranian Studies and was a consultant to various government departments and agencies.

Dr. Young is survived by his wife, the former Helen Augusta Clarke; one son, T. Cuyler Young, Jr., a professor of archaeology at the University of Toronto and curator of the South West Asian Section of the Royal Ontario Museum; and three grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at a later date. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Nicholaus Schuldes, 73 of Main Street, Windsor, died September 3 at his home. Born in Austria-Hungary, he lived in this area for 32 years and was a retired retail produce merchant in New York City.

He is survived by his wife, Lena Wewtja Schuldes, three sons, Nickolaus Jr. and Matthew J., both of Windsor, and Michael J. of Mercerville; two daughters, Mrs. William Gabona and Mrs. Otto Gagert, both of Windsor, and seven grandchildren.

The service was held at a Hightstown funeral home and burial was in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Windsor. Memorial contributions may be made to the Washington Township Lions Club.

Harry Glover, 84, of Largo, Fla., a former Princeton resident, died August 27 in a Florida nursing home. He lived here for 45 years.

Mr. Glover is survived by two sons, Bernard Glover of Princeton and Harry F. Glover of Lowell, Ind.; a sister, Mrs. Olive Herington of Largo; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The service and interment were held in Florida.

Clifford C. Stults, 81, of Cranbury Station Road, died September 6 at his home. A lifelong Cranbury area resident, he was a retired farmer.

Mr. Stults was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Cranbury and an elder and former deacon of the church. He was also a member for over 50 years of Apollo Lodge No. 156 F&AM of Cranbury and had been a member for more than 50 years, a member and trustee of the Union Valley Helping Hand Society of Monroe Township and a former member of the Cranbury zoning board.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alma M.F. Stults; two sons, C. Gordon of Cranbury and Lt. Col. Clifford C. of Bellevue, Neb.; a sister, Mrs. Laura M. Hutchinson of Hightstown; four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The service was scheduled to be held Thursday at 2 from the A.S. Cole Funeral Home, 22 North Main Street, Cranbury, the Rev. Fred W. Quigley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Brainerd Cemetery, Cranbury. Contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church memorial fund.

Mrs. Marie W. Cullen, 61, of New York City, died September 2 in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York. She was the wife of the late Dr. Glenn E. Cullen, director of the Children's Hospital Research Foundation in Cincinnati, Ohio.

She is survived by her son, Glenn Cullen of Princeton; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Rockwell of Weston, Conn., and Miss Jean Cullen with whom she lived; and four grandchildren.

The service was held in the Niles Chapel of the Nassau

Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. William Tucker officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Vera Voynow Fagles, 73, of 67 East Galbreath Drive, died September 5 at Helene Fuld Medical Center in Trenton. Born in Philadelphia, she lived here with her son Robert Fagles since 1966.

Mrs. Fagles was a graduate of the School of Architecture at Cornell University. She performed social services in the juvenile courts of Philadelphia and since 1950 served as executive secretary for Kappa Nu, a national collegiate fraternity.

She was the wife of the late Charles D. Fagles, an attorney, and in addition to her son she is survived by a brother, Andrew Voynow of New York and two granddaughters.

A memorial service will be held later in the fall.

Raymond and Richard Lewis, infant twin sons of Robert and Margie Lewis of 180 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville, died September 3 at the Methodist Hospital in Philadelphia.

In addition to their parents they are survived by their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis of Hamilton Township and maternal grandfather, Porter Brown of Warren, Ark.

A private service was held at a Trenton funeral home. Burial was in Ewing Cemetery.

The rooms - nine of them including five bedrooms - are all first class. Outstanding features include the handsome paneled family room complete with wet bar, huge master bedroom with an area for sitting room or study, a lovely big flagstone-floored screened porch adjoining the living room and fine kitchen, four full baths. Added assets include wall-to-wall carpeting, bookshelves in living room, family room and master bedroom, fully fenced backyard, dog pen, complete seclusion in a neighborhood location, and flagstone terrace overlooking the - we repeat - pretty, pretty grounds! Available in September $145,000

This unusual new Township listing combines traditional exterior lines with a contemporary interior offering flexibility for a variety of living styles, including two apartments. The intriguing house has about 2500 square feet of free-flowing living space. The 14' x 30' living room and the grand dining room kitchen are warmed by a raised 2-way fireplace. Beyond that there are more rooms, including studio space with north light, a second kitchen area, another fireplace, and a fenced backyard with good trees, edged by a brook and lots of bird cover. That's all we're going to say - you must see it to believe us. $83,000

CAREERS

If you're not earning what you're worth...

CONSIDER MERRILL LYNCH

You're a hard-driving, articulate, well-organized entrepreneurial person with a flair for sales.

You've got a good job now, but it isn't using your total capability. progress is limited and pats on the back don't show up on a paycheck. Maybe you should consider a sales career with Merrill Lynch.

1. Your earning potential can be exceptional as a Merrill Lynch Account Executive. We can give you some eye-opening examples of how rewarding an investment sales career can be.
2. You don't have to be a financial expert to qualify. We'll invest substantial money in your training, paying you while you are in Merrill Lynch's four-month training program, so intensive and practical some graduates call it a mini-MBA.
3. Merrill Lynch is not a brokerage house in a conventional "stocks and bonds" sense. We're a diversified financial corporation. Which means you'll have more than 30 kinds of financial products and services to offer your customers, in order to meet their individual investment needs.

What's the catch?
Just one. Your ability.

You need the ability to absorb financial information and relate it to customer needs; an ability to make decisions, handle details, communicate well—and work very hard.

You should also have a successful record of achievement in all endeavors coupled with a strong personal presentation. Sales or other related business experience a plus.

If you've got this ability, tell us. We'd like to make you a well-trained, financially sophisticated Account Executive in an exciting and prestigious field—earning what you're really worth.

This is "The Right House"?

You Bet It Is!

Usually, we show you pretty pictures of selected houses — sometimes, "The right house" is pictured — more often, the house you're looking for is not the one in the ad.

THE ANSWER to finding the ideal house is talking to a terrific agent who knows where to find that "perfect spot". We've sold some wonderful properties that never appeared in the papers to some great people who asked us to call them the minute we found "the right house" — That's why we say,

We're The Place
This is the Time!

JUNE IN JANUARY...

King's Grant

Treat yourself to sheer luxury!

Imagine breakfasting in a lush, year round subtropical garden ... right in your own home. We've seen many a house with inside planters, but never one actually built around a garden. The cathedral ceilinged living room, dining room, kitchen and entry all open directly to this central skylighted garden.

Also on this level is a master bedroom with super dressing room and bath.

Curving steps go down between rocks and foliage to the children's level with three more bedrooms and bath and a TV room which also opens to the garden.

This sleek, contemporary house is now under construction on a 4.5 acre lot with trees and a lovely view.

Wonder what the outside looks like? Call us.

Financial Problems Nearing Solution, McCarter Looks Forward to Expanded Season Due to Open October 7

With a smile almost triumphant — but not quite, because there is still $30,000 to go — McCarter's producing director Michael Kahn reminded reporters at a press conference last week that six months ago, nobody was sure the theatre would survive.

The dollar goal is $120,000. The kitty has "$85 to $90,000," Mr. Kahn said and he added, "I'm reasonably confident that with a lot of hard work, the remaining $30,000 will come in by Christmas."

But this came at the end. Most of the time, Mr. Kahn talked glowingly about the six-play expanded season that will start Thursday, October 7, with a "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"Expanded," because Mr. Kahn and McCarter plan 17 performances over three week-ends for each of the six plays. Already, he reported happily, 9,500 subscribers have signed in — "more than we had last year at the start of the season" — and everybody is hoping for a total of 11,000. With high praise for Micky Hobson, whose job is building audiences, Mr. Kahn said the second stage of a subscription drive will start after Labor Day.

A Look Ahead. About the season....

After "Streetcar," there will be a new staging of Shaw's "Major Barbara" with Maria Tucci in the title role.

Then, the American premiere of the first play by Swedish novelist Per Olov Enquist, "The Night of the Tribades" (apparently pronounced "tribbids"), her work in "Kennedy's described by Mr. Kahn as "a Children", and according to very theatrical play." Based on an incident in the life of August Strindberg, the play she said "We must do a play relies on entries in Strindberg's journal and on his own descriptions of what happened. Incidentally, Mr. Kahn says and is therefore, Mr. Kahn Tennessee Williams will be pointed out, a factual play. It here to see "Streetcar." And deals with Strindberg, his wife Enquist, author of "Night of and her Lesbian friend and the Tribades" and the translator, Ross Shideler, are both scheduled for McCarter visits for that production.

Also in Philadelphia. Five of these six plays -- not "Tribades" -- will journey to Philadelphia for presentation in the Annenberg Theatre in Philadelphia's Center City. McCarter's "Awake and Heckart, who did "Mother

News of the Theatres

"Sing" had a successful run there last spring.

Yes, it is financially helpful to McCarter to be able to book into the Annenberg, although Mr. Kahn didn't reveal dollars and cents.

He did announce, however, that the Jersey Council on the Arts has awarded McCarter a $32,000 grant -- a nice change from last year's $5,000. He praised Governor Byrne for being "extremely supportive" of McCarter.

In addition, the National Endowment for the Arts has increased its contribution to McCarter, sending along $49,500 this year.

"And we're starting to get grants from the major corporations," Mr. Kahn revealed. "It's just the start of a major corporate push on our part. We're starting to get through to the big corporations when we tell our story."

"It's been a difficult period of education for audiences, the awareness that although the University is our largest patron -- $110,000 a year plus the theatre building -- it is by no means the only patron."

Membership Grows. Other patrons, perhaps not corporate in size, come to McCarter through McCarter Associates, whose president this year is Mrs. Stuart Duncan. There are already 600 people who belong to the Associates, Mrs. Duncan announced, comparing that figure to the "two or three hundred" who belonged a year ago.

She was "gratified and surprised," by the number, she told reporters, and by the geographic spread it represents. There are 94 communities, she said, with the surprise still in her voice, where McCarter subscribers and Associates live.

Mrs. Duncan wants Associates to participate, as well as to observe from the audience, and she and Mr. Kahn cited as an example the Associates' tours of down-stairs-McCarter, so different from upstairs-McCarter, and yet the vital area of the theatre where the daily supporting work goes on.

And More. Besides the six plays, of course, McCarter keeps the lights on with films, ballet, pop concerts, classical concerts, specials....

"Julie Harris will be here in 'Belle of Amherst,'" Mr. Kahn announced, adding, "You could actually live in McCarter, so much is going on here -- if you could find a place to park."

His own experience at McCarter, Mr. Kahn described as "more ambitious and exciting than I originally thought -- growing and growing all the time. McCarter's audiences demand quality, and when I talk to actors' agents, the agents so often say, 'It would be good for so-and-so to act there -- McCarter is a prestigious theatre.' It's wonderful to hear this, from the outside."

"This coming season has a variety of plays, all of which we think are important, providing repertory in many different styles, the familiar and the unfamiliar, the old and the new. I hope it's all as exciting to see as it is to think about."

POP!

Rock! The pop and rock season sponsored by McCarter will start off with Judy Collins and Stephen Stills, not together, but in appearances during the early weeks in October.

Judy, one of the first ladies of pop music, will be making her first Princeton concert appearance since 1971, when she appears in Dillon Gym on Saturday, October 2, at 8 p.m. Her album, "Bread and Roses," is her 15th, and it's being released to coincide with her fall tour.

Stephen Stills will make his Princeton debut on Sunday, October 17 (8 p.m.) in Dillon Gymnasium. He is one-fourth of the Crosby-Stills-Nash-Young quartet, and was a founding member of the Buffalo Springfield. As a songwriter, he's written for both groups. Remember "For What It's Worth", "Love the One You're With" and "49 Bye Blues"?

Tickets for both concerts will go on sale at McCarter box-office this Saturday at 10 a.m.

FILM SERIES STARTS

McCarter Has Variety. McCarter's varied and variety-filled film series for 1976-77 will open next weekend, September 17 and 18, with "The Conversation" and "Chinatown," a twin bill to be shown starting at 7 p.m. each night.

"The Conversation" is

Francis Ford Coppola's thriller, which combines psychological sensitivity with social analysis and political commentary. It's about an electronic surveillance technician, played by Gene Hackman, who is both master and servant of his craft. That's the first part of the double bill. After it will come Roman Polanski's "Chinatown," evoking the southern California of the 1930s. Jack Nicholson plays a private eye, patterned after Raymond Chandler's Philip Marlowe, and Faye Dunaway is the mysterious Mrs. Mulwray. John Huston is in the supporting cast.

AUDITIONS SET
For "Dames at Sea." Can you move? Can you follow dance steps? Ever tap-dance? Sing, sing, sing?

Auditions for the three male and three female roles in "Dames at Sea," Princeton Community Players' first production of the season, will be held next Monday and Tuesday at 7 p.m. at 171 Broadmead, the PCP theatre. Callbacks will be next Wednesday, September 15. The play will run the last week-end in October and the first two week-ends in November.

A very campy and nostalgic look at Busby Berkeley, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, et al, says PCP, "Dames at Sea" is about a small-town girl who achieves overnight stardom when she substitutes for the star. There's a sailor-songwriter, the all-knowing best friend, and all the other ingredients.

The Opening Season party, with PCP as hosts, will be held this Sunday from 3-6 p.m. at 443 Herrontown Road, the home of Leo and Karen Cohen. PCP invites anyone interested in theatre—and interested in joining PCP.

Additional information about either the party or the auditions may be obtained by calling 921-6314.

23rd YEAR OPENS
For Ballet Society. Alexei Yudenich, former principal dancer with the Pennsylvania Ballet and now a teacher at the Pennsylvania Ballet School in Philadelphia, will be on hand as a member of the faculty when the Princeton Ballet Society opens its 23rd season.

Mr. Yudenich, who is artist-in-residence at Glassboro State College, has for the past four summers served as chairman of the dance department of the Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Arts at Bucknell University. He holds the silver medal from the Fifth International Ballet competition held in Varna, Bulgaria, in 1970.

Ballet Society classes will begin Thursday, September 16. Registrations for new students will be held this Thursday and Friday between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. and this Saturday, between 9:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. at both the Princeton studio, 262 Alexander Street, and the Cranbury studio, The Old School, off Main Street.

The class schedule for the year consists of 61 offerings in classical ballet for kindergartners through advanced adults, ten sessions in modern dance and six in modern jazz.

This year's faculty members are, in ballet, Judy Leviton, Joan Morton Lucas, Christina Klotz, Roger Rouillier and Sally Edwards; in modern dance, Larry Clark and Sherry Kaplan Alban; in modern jazz, Merry Lynn Katis and Kascia Worrell; yoga, Merlynn Dixon and Suzanne Seoble Kernan; mid-east dance, "Deshara"; body conditioning for men and women, Jan Rose. Marilois Kerman is the head of the accompanist staff.

Schedule information and application blanks may be obtained by writing the

PINTER PLAY PLANNED
At Princeton Inn. The Princeton Inn College Theatre will present a special Freshman Week performance of "The Lover" by Harold Pinter on Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8. Admission is free. Boomie Pedersen and Christopher Baumer will return from last year's Princeton Inn Shakespeare Players to portray the suburban couple who constitute the subject of Pinter's black comedy. The play was originally written for British television and was directed in its first staging by Mr. Pinter himself.

"The Lover" will open the 76-77 season at the Inn theatre, which will feature a Shakespeare comedy in the spring and two contemporary one-act comedies as its second show this fall.

NEW SEASON
For Creative Theatre. A special class for four-year-olds and Saturday morning Theatre Workshop for high school students are on the program this fall for Creative Theatre Unlimited's eighth season.

The Workshop, for grades 9-12, will be taught by Florence Falk, who has had acting and TV experience with emphasis on avant-garde theatre. The Workshop will explore acting techniques, movement, voice and space awareness.

The four-year-olds will be taught by Joan Robinson, who has a degree in elementary education. Like other classes for young children, this one will develop sensory awareness through exercises, and will involve children in

FACULTY RECITAL SET

At Choir College. The second in a series of faculty recitals at Westminster Choir College, which are open to the public free of charge, will be given by soprano Judith Nicosia on Sunday at 8 in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus. Shann Jacobsen will accompany at the piano, and works by Purcell, Rodrigo, Rachmaninoff and Messiaen will be heard.

Ms. Nicosia has given several previous recitals at the Choir College and has performed leading roles with the Princeton University Opera Theatre. While on vocal fellowships at Tanglewood she studied with Phyllis Curtin and was associated with Oliver Messiaen, the world-famous French composer whose songs will be included in her program. An assistant professor of voice at Westminster, she holds a B.M.E. from Ithaca College and an M.M. from Indiana University.

Shann Jacobsen has also been associated with Tanglewood and has been an opera coach and accompanist for the Santa Fe Opera Co., the Merola Program of the San Francisco Opera, the Boston University Opera Workshop and principal coach for the New England Conservatory Opera Theatre and Workshop.

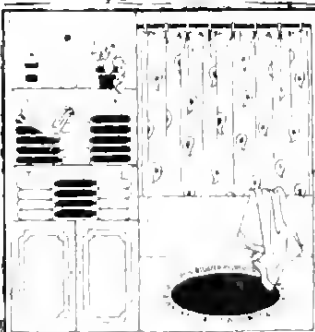

PRINCE

Obsession. Steeped in the tradition of tension and uncertainty that Alfred Hitchcock has made his very own province, "Obsession" is a taut, masterfully-concocted and consistently fascinating romantic suspense drama.

Cliff Robertson, in what might prove to be the finest performance of his career, is a guilt-ridden New Orleans businessman who encounters an exact double of his late wife 16 years after she and his daughter perished during a kidnap caper in which he botched the ransom. Genevieve Bujold gives a superb performance as Robertson's first wife and her exact double, a young Italian art student whom he meets on a business trip to Florence. Robertson first sees her in the Florentine church where he had originally met his wife.

He becomes obsessed by her, intent on recreating her into the one true love of his life. After a convoluted progression of events that Hitchcock would have admired, his plans to marry the girl are quashed when a second kidnapping gives him a chance to exorcise those 16 years of guilt. As loose ends are tied up, the film accelerates to a smashing climax.

Misty Beethoven. A fledgling Parisian hooker is transformed into the sexual goddess of the jet set in this X-rated, hardcore "updating" of "Pygmalion." There is more than enough action, attractive bodies and successive doses of every variety of sex to satisfy most porno buffs. Filmed on location in Paris, Rome and New York, "Misty" proves that the Pygmalion legend can Tunnel Vision. Obviously aimed at the same college audience that responded to the outrageous parodies of network television in "The Groove Tube" two years ago, "Tunnel Vision" is another series of TV commercial and program parodies, again liberally spiced with off-color humor and a concentration on bodily functions.

Unfortunately for everyone concerned, "Tunnel Vision" is consistently juvenile and distinctly second-rate.

Game shows come in for considerable ribbing but 80 percent of the film consists of take-offs on actual commercials. Most of the "attempted" humor is crude, such as a correspondence course in proctology or a feminine hygiene aid inserted with a personal vibrator.

PLAYHOUSE

Silent Movie. Although this effort only occasionally approaches the 24-karat gleam of "Blazing Saddles" or "Young Frankenstein," Mel Brooks' madcap tribute to the silent movie era proves that silence is at least somewhat golden.

A holdover at the Playhouse, "Silent Movie" lives up to its name: Brooks has dispensed with the dialogue and keeps the movie zipping along with a non-stop progression of sight gags, pratfalls, and patented Brooks lunacy. He puts in a few surprises along the way, including the full-scale cameo appearances of several Hollywood heavyweights: Burt Reynolds, James Caan,

Paul Newman, Liza Minnelli, and Anne Bancroft.

Bancroft could hardly refuse the offer, since she's the real-life wife of Brooks, who not only directed and wrote most of the screenplay, or should we say story-line, but also starred. Brooks plays a has-been Hollywood director who drank himself into professional oblivion, finally sobered up, and has decided to make a smashing comeback.

Abetted by local sidekicks Marty Feldman and Dom DeLuise, who bring to mind the Three Stooges in their antics, Brooks convinces the studio chief (Sid Caesar) of a poverty row studio to bankroll a silent movie with a half dozen of Hollywood's biggest stars to avoid being taken over by a corporate conglomerate.

In case you've forgotten how these silent movies are kept in motion, John Morris provides a snappy musical score and periodic title cards give Brooks a chance to come back with a few irrepressible one-liners. Others in the cast include Bernadette Peters, playing the siren of anyone's Hollywood romance fantasy, and Henny Youngman.

published September 15 by Lippincott. Mr. Schwartz, who teaches at Rutgers University, has written many books for young people about folk humor and other aspects of folklore.

His latest book is illustrated by Glen Rounds of Southern Pines, North Carolina, with whom Mr. Schwartz has collaborated on five other books, including "A Twister of Twists," a "Tangler of Tongues," and "Whoppers: Tall Tales and Other Lies."

"Kickle Snifters" describes to youthful readers such creatures of the imagination as the squonk, the goofusbird, the timherdoodle, and the hoopajuba. "The creatures in this bestiary live only in our imaginations," Mr. Schwartz writes in an afterword. "A few were born in the work of James Whitcomb Riley. Others emerged from the light, shadow and sound of a lonely wood. Others are straight-out lies, cousins to the tall tale, spun by frontiersmen, woodsmen, cowboys, and carnival sharps to prank the tenderfoot and pass the time."

His publisher says that Mr. Schwartz, who also wrote "Cross Your Fingers, Spit in Your Hat: Superstitions and Other Beliefs," writes in a small studio next to his house where he lives with his wife, four children, and two black cats.

Most people can recognize color. There are many, however, who are color-weak, and there are a few that are totally color-blind, that is, they see black and white only. The most common type of color blindness is red-green blindness. To these people the entire color spectrum is seen in yellow and blue tones. Apparently this condition is inherited as a sex-linked trait. It is more common in men than in women, affecting between five to eight per cent of the male population. Color vision can be determined by many pseudo-isochromatic tests.

This family amassed one of the greatest art collections of the Baroque era, and documenting their activities as patrons of the arts is a major contribution to the

ART CLASSES TO START
Creative Workshop in 7th Year. The Young Peoples Creative Workshop, a small group multi-media art program, is accepting students for its seventh year.

The workshop, directed by Helen Schwartz, includes both traditional and innovative experiences in printmaking, painting and drawing. The program is designed to develop both technical and creative resources of students 11 through 15.

Etchings, woodcut, painting collage and collograph, as well as classical drawing skills are included in the program. Small group instruction is stressed to allow individual skills and needs to develop without restricting the creative experience.

Mrs. Schwartz had been on the faculty at the Princeton Adult School, conducted workshops in the Princeton Regional Schools, taught children at the Princeton Art Association and other area institutions. Her prints and paintings are included in the Newark Museum, the New Jersey State Museum, Princeton University and other public and private collections. Information may be obtained by calling 921-3722.

REGISTRATION STARTS

At Sharon Studio. Registration is under way at the Sharon Studio for the 22nd year of classes taught by Mrs. Naomi Sharon for children between the ages of 6 and 12. Mrs. Sharon uses a creative, progressive approach and will give instruction in plastics, mosaics, metal work, wood work, ceramics, stone work sculpture, mobiles, print making, acrylic painting, water colors, pastels, drawing and sketching.

Works by her pupils in all these media were exhibited at the Jewish Center last June. For information call 921-6156.

CLASSES TO START

At Loft Gallery. The Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 306 Alexander Street, will offer five classes in the fall semester, beginning September 27. Registration is now being taken.

A watercolor seminar will be held Monday nights at 7 for 10 weeks and will offer concentrated painting for the more advanced student. Techniques will be explored to the fullest extent and personal attention given each student. There will be field trips and extra work assigned.

An eight week course in anatomy and life drawing will be held Tuesday nights and will feature a half-hour lecture on anatomical structure followed by two hours of drawing from a live model. Commercial art will be taught Wednesday evenings by Dan Koller, a practicing commercial artist. Students will learn basic layout and mechanicals as well as specific reproduction techniques.

On Wednesday mornings a beginner's watercolor class will be taught by Joy Barth whose works have been exhibited here. In addition, a Thursday evening beginning watercolor class will be offered which will include demonstrations, slide presentations and field trips.

For further information, call The Loft Gallery between 9:30 and 4 at 924-8056 Tuesday through Saturday.

TO SHOW 7 PAINTINGS

At State Museum. Frances Kuehn, of Route 27, whose exhibition credits include a "Phases of New Realism" show at the University of Miami and a "Selections in Contemporary Realism" show at the Akron (Ohio) Art Institute, will exhibit 7 of her paintings at the New Jersey State Museum from September 11 through November 7. She will also participate in a public "Conversation with the Artist" program in the Museum's main galleries on Sunday, October 10, from 5-6.

Mrs. Kuehn was born in the Bronx and studied art at Douglass College and the Rutgers Graduate School. She has taught at Douglass, Ocean County College and Jersey City State College. Most of her works center on an individual, and she notes that "painting a portrait gives me a specific and passionate impulse to engage the problems of painting, as both an abstract and a descriptive form."

Here's a tough football question... What was the only college football team in history that ever had 2 future Heisman Trophy winners playing in the same backfield at the same time... Answer is Army of 1945 and 1946 which had Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis in the same backfield... Both Blanchard and Davis won the Heisman.

Did you know that originally tennis courts were not rectangular in shape as they are now... Originally tennis courts had an hour-glass shape... They were 30-feet wide at the back of the courts, but only 21-feet wide at the net.

There's a new rule in college football this year that, oddly enough, makes it possible for the score of a game to be 7-0 BEFORE the clock starts... The new rule says the game clock starts only when the kickoff is brought out of the end zone... It's now possible for a kickoff to be fumbled in the end zone and recovered by the kicking team for a touchdown before the game begins on the clock... The clock never moves on an extra point, so the score could be 7-0 before time officially begins!

Inexperience Major Problem for PHS Football Team This Fall-- Small Squad's Biggest Potential Appears to Rest in Backfield

(This is the first of three articles on prospects of the 1976 PHS football team.)

Princeton High School football coach Jim Beachell, who went from a 3-6 record two years ago in his first season, to 5-4 last year, is reluctant to make any predictions about the Little Tigers' prospects this fall. There are too many question marks.

The overriding one, says Beachell, is a lack of experience.

"Our basic problem right now is a lack of experience. If the kids come on, we'll do well early. Time will tell. The talent is there. I think it will flower...but at this point I don't know."

The squad numbers about 55 — not large in comparison to the 80 and 90 players when PHS had a much larger enrollment. In fact, Beachell believes that Princeton High is the smallest school in the new, seven-team Colonial Valley League. On that squad are 13 returning lettermen — one more than the previous year — but that figure is misleading, says Beachell, because most of them have had limited game experience.

Seven Senior Lettermen. Pre-eminent among those returning are tailback Tony Strong and guard Jim O'Grady, co-captains of the 1976 team. Other senior lettermen available are defensive back Phil Freehold Borough, which is Billington, back Luther coached by Earl Ownes, a McKeller, tackles John-Paul Maman and Eric Suber and guard Mike Long. Long let-tered as a sophomore.

Junior lettermen include fullback Keith Wadsworth, quarterback David Miller, punter Barry Turner, and

PHS Joins Colonial Valley Conference

The new Colonial Valley Conference, of which Princeton High School is a member, ushers in something that coaches for years have sought: a Mercer County conference that pits schools of equal size against each other.

In the planning for two years, Colonial Valley replaces the Mercer County Conference which for years had to be identified as "mythical" before it finally became formal a few years ago.

The seven ColVal members, all Group 2 schools, are Princeton High, Hightstown, St. Anthony, Lawrence, West Windsor, Hopewell Valley and Notre Dame. They will compete in all sports. (Hopewell Valley, however, does not field a football team.)

Cut adrift have been the Group 4 schools of Trenton, Ewing, Steinert and Hamilton — all traditional PHS opponents in the past. Trenton and Ewing remain on this year's PHS schedule as non-league opponents.

Like the other coaches in the area, Princeton High's Coach Jim Beachell is pleased with formation of the league. "I'm looking forward to it, although I enjoyed playing in the Mercer League, too. We played everybody."

Beachell then began to tick off some of the opponents outside the area that the Little Tigers had met in past years — most of them bigger schools: Cherry Hill, Thomas Jefferson, J.P. Stevens, North Plainfield, Long Branch, Bristol (Pa.). "I enjoyed playing all around the state," he said.

As to Princeton High's chances of becoming the first to wear the Colonial Valley crown, Beachell said that he was not counting his inexperienced team out, although he felt that Hightstown with its overall personnel should rank as a favorite. St. Anthony has also been touted in the early pre-season ratings.

Last year's football records for the seven members were Hightstown, 10-1; St. Anthony, 5-3-1; PHS, 5-4; Lawrence, 3-5-1; West Windsor, 3-6; and Notre Dame, 0-8.

PHS FOOTBALL CAPTAINS: Tailback Tony Strong (left) and Jim O'Grady, a tough, 170-lb. guard, will co-captain the 1976 Princeton High School football team.

Chris Cahill, guard Brian Cleveland and tackle Kariem ElMeligi.

Beachell and his top assistant, Frank Francisco, who is starting his tenth year on the staff, will get their first good look on Saturday when Manalapan with its veer offense will come here for the first of three PHS pre-season scrimmages. Three days later, on Tuesday, the Little Tigers will scrimmage South Brunswick here. The following Saturday, they will travel to defensive back Phil Freehold Borough, which is Billington, back Luther coached by Earl Ownes, a McKeller, tackles John-Paul Maman and Eric Suber and guard Mike Long. Long let-tered as a sophomore.

Following the Freehold scrimmage, PHS will have nine days to sharpen its attack and shore up the defense before the opener Monday, September 27, with Lakewood. After games with Ewing and Hun, the Little Tigers will play all their league games in succession: Hightstown, West Windsor, St. Anthony's, Lawrence and Notre Dame. They will end the season against traditional rival Trenton High.

Princeton will play six of its nine games at home, but all three games away are league contests. For more on the new Colonial Valley League, see box.

SPORTS In Princeton

O'Neill Back as Coach. As Beachell and his staff struggle with the sorting and shifting in the early going, the problem of inexperience is more serious in the line and defense than the backfield. Members of the staff, in addition to Francisco, who will work with the receivers (Beachell will coach the offensive line and linebackers) are Marc Anderson, who will handle the backs, and Jim O'Neill.

O'Neill, PHS baseball coach, was a member of the Princeton University 150-pound staff last year. His return to the PHS staff, says Beachell, "is a big plus." Bill Cirullo and John Halpin will again coach the freshman team.

"The offense is going to have to do some of the pulling for us," said Francisco. The last two years we were pretty well balanced — each would help the other — but this year we'll have to control the ball to give the defense a rest."

"It's much tougher in high school to control the ball," remarked Beachell, "any more than six plays and you've got a problem." So the burden on the backfield to move the ball consistently is a big one. It is a key to any early success.

At the moment the backfield is the team's greatest strength — "It's all down hill after that," commented one coach.

A run-down of the candidates for each backfield position:

Tailback. In Tony Strong, Beachell says he has one of the fastest backs among the top 20 in the state. "He's progressed 100 percent; he was outstanding in the Trenton game." In the finale last fall with Trenton, Strong played a big role in the Little Tigers' 14-13 Frank Merriwell victory in the final period which assured the Blue and White of a winning season.

Small at 5-7, 155, Strong compensates with his speed. He runs the 40 in 4.6 and the 100 in 10.1. He will do the bulk of the outside running from the multiple 1 offense employed by Beachell.

Four Key Players Lost to Princeton Football Team

Even football teams blessed with adequate personnel at most positions and riding the crest of recent winning seasons can be thrown off stride by unanticipated gaps on the depth chart when practice begins. As a team struggling to achieve its first record above .500 in six years, Princeton finds its future severely complicated by the loss of four players who had been listed as the best at their positions.

The most serious loss is that of Dan Calvo, the 228-pound center who had started the last 12 games over two seasons and was considered the keystone of the offensive line. He is back in college for his senior year, but had given indications last spring that he might forego the sport and did not report when practice began last week.

Also among the missing is a 230-lb tackle, junior Joe Prochak, whose potential had been counted on to allow the veteran Kevin Fox to switch to guard. Prochak missed all of last season with an ankle injury but was listed as particularly promising on a basis of his 1974 freshman year. On defense, letterman Bill Mitchell had been tabbed as the probable replacement for Aaron Satterthwaite at right end. He saw enough reserve action to earn a letter as a sophomore, but has joined

Casciola and Burns on TV
Bob Casciola of Princeton and Frank Burns of Rutgers will take part in a call-in television program Monday at 8 p.m. on New Jersey Public Television (23, 50, 52 and 58.)

Sports fans are invited to call -- toll free -- 800-796-8690 and ask questions of either coach during the half-hour program. Sportscaster Dick Landis will be the host.

The two teams will play in Palmer Stadium on September 25, with the Scarlet Knights seeking revenge for a 10-7 defeat last fall -- one of two games they lost in 11 starts.

Calvo and Prochak as players who have called an end to their football careers.

Knee Injury Fails to Heal.
The defensive platoon, considered as the Tigers' chief asset in pre-season estimates on a basis of its experience, has lost another letterman in senior Paul McKeon. A 200-lb. linebacker, he was listed as a probable starter on the right side until it became apparent that an old knee injury would not permit another year of football.

As if this were not enough of a drain on available manpower, the quarterback ranks have been depleted by one at a time when that position is in need of all the help that can be mustered. John Springer, who started the first five freshman games last fall until sidelined by an injury, will not play this year.

That leaves the number of players with any degree of college experience as a quarterback at three. None of those seeking to replace the graduated Ron Beible has ever thrown a pass in varsity competition.

Top choice at the moment, off the early days of practice, is senior Jack Flannery, who has piloted the Varsity B team for the past two seasons. As a freshman and jayvee, his completion average is better than 50 percent, and the amount of time he has logged while waiting for a starting assignment at the top will give him needed poise.

Competing with Flannery are junior Kirby Lockhart and sophomore Steve Garza. Lockhart was the freshman quarterback in 1974, came to the varsity last September well-regarded but never got a minute's playing time when a pre-season shoulder injury removed him from action for the season. As a freshman, he had a completion average of well over 50 percent and threw six touchdown passes while being debited with only three interceptions.

When Springer was hurt last fall, Garza took over for him in commendable fashion and has shown well so far this year. A fourth possibility is junior Mike Stein, who is the probable punter, a job he discharged with skill two years ago before dropping out of college in 1975. He was a reserve quarterback behind Lockhart, and faces stiff competition from the three quarterbacks ranked ahead of him.

Scrimmages This Week.
Half the Princeton squad will go to Millersville State College in Pennsylvania this week for a Thursday scrimmage. On Friday, the balance of the team will scrimmage Wilkes College here, and the coaching staff should know considerably more about each player on a basis of what develops during those sessions.

Precious little time is left because of the revised Ivy schedule in effect this year. A scant eight days after the second of the pre-season scrimmages the Tigers will step out on Schoellkopf Field at Ithaca, N.Y., to open their season against Cornell.

They are lucky in this scheduling. To permit the major changes about to go into effect, it was necessary to book them for back-to-back trips to Ithaca, rather than to Hanover this fall.

Accordingly, they will begin by playing the weakest team in the league, and will not face Dartmouth, a possible title contender, until the final game of the season. Instead of facing the solidly-staffed Green, they will play a Cornell eleven still looking for its first Ivy victory under second-year coach George Seifert.

Nothing, however, will be easy for the Orange and Black this season. It had all it could do to top Cornell a year ago, 16-8, with Ron Beible at quarterback and a host of other veterans on hand. The Ithacans suffered through a 1-8 season, edging only Bucknell, and have high hopes of starting off on the right foot by trimming this rebuilding band of Princetonians.

Beachell had hoped to pair Strong with Ken Bullock (9.8 in the 100) which would have given PHS a blistering 1-2 punch but Bullock did not come out for the sport this year. Behind Strong now are three juniors — Barry Turner, Ken Beasley and Mike Fuschini — and sophomore Darryl Grisham.

Turner did all of the team's punting last year and was a fine freshman prospect. "If he gains confidence, he'll do a good job for us," said Beachell. For Beasley, the position is a new one. Beachell described him as "small but solid, quick, likes to carry the ball." He is 5-4, 145 pounds.

Fuschini has a lot of natural ability but sat out most of the season last year recovering from a shoulder operation, the result of a basketball injury. Grisham has good size for a sophomore, says Beachell, "has good speed, loves football. A tough kid."

Fullback. The lone senior prospect is Phil Billington (5-10, 165), used primarily on defense last year. Playing behind starting fullback Eric Ziolkowski (now at Dartmouth) was Keith Wadsworth, a junior this year. Wadsworth is 185, strong, tough. "He wants to play; he's a real asset to the team," said Francisco.

Two sophomores waiting in the wings are John Forrey and John Sapoch, who shared the fullback position on last year's 4-4 freshman team. Both have good size for sophomores. Sapoch's father was captain and quarterback of one of the single-wing Princeton University teams two decades ago.

Quarterback. The weakest spot in the backfield — at the start of practice. The lone senior candidate, and only one with varsity experience, is Scott Thompson, 6-0, 175. He has thrown only three times. There is no question about his arm, however. He is an outstanding baseball shortstop.

Junior David Miller has had limited experience, while sophomore Bob Flippin, a southpaw, "did a better than adequate job" as a freshman, Beachell reported.

Looming over all three, perhaps, is Todd Blackledge, a 6-2½, 205-lb. sophomore transfer from Kentucky, whose father joined the Princeton University football staff this fall. "He was the punter, kickoff return man, quarterback, all everything in Kentucky," said Beachell. "I don't know if he'll start right off the bat for us," added Francisco, "but he is a legitimate player."

"We have a big hole at quarterback," Beachell continued. "If Thompson gains confidence in himself, if he comes along as expected, he'll help us out a lot." Although not as fast as the others, Blackledge, commented Beachell, "has a mind for football; he seems to know a lot about the game."

Swingback. As at quarterback, Beachell may be

Football Clinic Set for September 11

Princeton University's football team will host its sixth annual football clinic on Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 at Palmer Stadium.

The clinic is planned for youngsters from 8-14, and their parents. The format will be the same as the one started last year by coach Bob Casciola.

Casciola will set-up a series of stations that will include two or three players from a specific position and one coach. "Those in attendance can then move from station to station, learning the techniques of each position and getting a chance to meet the members of the squad," Casciola said. "This gives the clinic a personal touch."

A portion of the morning will be set aside for youngsters to take pictures, and there will also be a raffle for tickets to each of Princeton's home games and three official collegiate footballs.

"We consider the football clinic one of our most important public relations projects of the year," Casciola pointed out. "It's an excellent way of introducing young people to Princeton football."

bailed out by a transfer student, in this case by Ron Riemann, a 5-10, 170-lb. transfer from Minnesota, who was a tight end on a championship team there. "He has an excellent attitude. I'm counting on him," said Beachell.

Junior candidates are Bob Campbell, a standout freshman player, who sat out virtually all last season because of an operation last summer, and Dave Miller -- if the latter doesn't work out at quarterback. Also Tony Intartaglia, very strong but has no experience at the position. Kieran Esposito, a sophomore, is a transfer student from Hun, where he was a receiver.

Summing up, Beachell said the backfield is high in ability but lacks experience, especially at quarterback. "It's just a matter of coming on, just a matter of time."

"We know Tony can do it; we're positive Wadsworth can do it. They will be the key to our attack."
